

THE GREAT GLOBAL WARMING SWINDLE

DOCUMENTARY

Sunday 1st June
8:30pm on PRIME

This one-hour documentary blows the whistle on the biggest swindle in modern history. 'Man Made Global Warming', we are told, is the biggest threat ever to mankind - there is no room for scientific doubt.

However, despite everything you've heard to the contrary, the theory that man-made emissions of CO<sub>2</sub> have a discernable effect on climate lacks robust scientific evidence.

In fact there is overwhelming evidence indicating that it's solar activity that determines temperature. Many solar scientists attest to the fact that during the late 20th century we experienced the highest levels of solar activity for centuries.

Using a comprehensive range of evidence we see that warming over the past 300 years represents a natural recovery from a 'little ice age'. Humans do have an effect on climate, but it's infinitely small compared with the vast natural forces that are constantly pushing global temperatures around. From melting glaciers and rising sea levels, the myths are debunked.

It's the morality tale of the decade and politicians are eager to ponder to middle class green prejudice, throwing vast quantities of public cash into scientific research aimed at supporting an unsupportable theory. It's a tale of scientists fearful of speaking out, of upsetting the funding applecart and jeopardising the many thousands of research jobs generated for them by the global warming scare.

Highly controversial, The Great Global Warming Swindle brings together the arguments of some scientists who disagree with the prevailing consensus that carbon dioxide released by human activity is the cause of rising global temperatures today. It has been roundly attacked by some scientists and enthusiastically received by others, and the arguments it contains are an important part of the wider debate on the causes of climate change.

Prime News will be screening a special half hour studio debate following the screening of this documentary, with key New Zealanders representing both sides of this highly contentious topic.

Disturbing. Debatable. Damning. You can't afford to miss it.

Everything you've ever been told about Global Warming is probably untrue. Global Warming is indeed the biggest threat facing the world today, but not in the way you think.
